Good Samaritan Medical Center
Designated an ACR Breast Imaging Center of Excellence

(West Palm Beach, FL) June 15, 2011— Good Samaritan Medical Center has been designated a Breast Imaging Center of Excellence by the American College of Radiology (ACR).

By awarding facilities the status of a Breast Imaging Center of Excellence, the ACR recognizes breast imaging centers that have earned accreditation in mammography, stereotactic breast biopsy, and breast ultrasound (including ultrasound-guided breast biopsy). Good Samaritan Medical Center CEO, Mark Nosacka, said, “This designation is a testament to the care provided at our hospital’s Comprehensive Breast Center which gives women access to advanced tools to detect cancer early and help win the battle against the disease.”

Peer-review evaluations, conducted in each breast imaging modality by board-certified physicians and medical physicists who are experts in the field, have determined that this facility has achieved high practice standards in image quality, personnel qualifications, facility equipment, quality control procedures, and quality assurance programs.

The ACR is a national professional organization serving more than 34,000 diagnostic/interventional radiologists, radiation oncologists, nuclear medicine physicians, and medical physicists with programs focusing on the practice of medical imaging and radiation oncology and the delivery of comprehensive health care services.
