

Palm Beach Business Group breakfast to feature speaker Bernie Siegel on stem-cell research

Wednesday, Jan. 11, 2012

Bernie Siegel, founder and executive director of the Genetics Policy Institute in Wellington, will discuss stem cells Friday at Good Samaritan Medical Center as a prelude to a World Stem Cell Summit.

He will address the Palm Beach Business Group breakfast, which starts at 8 a.m.

The institute is a nonprofit advocate to promote and defend stem-cell research and its application in medicine to develop therapeutics and cures for many diseases and disorders.

It is also a sponsor of the World Stem Cell Summit, which is scheduled Dec. 3-5 at the Palm Beach County Convention Center. In addition, the Palm Beach Business Group will be a sponsor.

The summit speaker lineup is a who's who of stem-cell science and technology, ethics, policy and regulation. The University of Miami Miller School of Medicine will be involved, with support from the Interdisciplinary Stem Cell Institute and the Diabetes Research Institute at UM.

Paid-up members (and paid-up renewals) pay $10 for the Friday breakfast; guests, $25. Members and guests can pay at the door.

To join, go to www.pbbusinessgroup.com.

For more information, call Tom Ross at 820-1579.

Find this article at:

<http://www.palmbeachdailynews.com/news/health/palm-beach-business-group-breakfast-to-feature-speaker-2096103.html>